TOURISM: One of the main features of this journal is to extract qualitative information in relation to tourism sector such as: Trends in tourism business, Sustainable goals of tourism sector, tourism Planning and policy aspects of regional, national and international as well as tourism management studies.

HOSPITALITY: This journal is also focusing on the latest trends and topic of various sub sectors hospitality sector

- Entrepreneurship in tourism and Hospitality
- The expectation is that a proposal will show an awareness of international perspective and that the contents of the special issue would be of interest to an international audience. A special issue might bring together work by researchers from different countries, or authors might expressly make international comparisons. But an internationally diverse set of contributors or an international comparative approach to research is not a requirement for successful proposals. The key issue is that the contents report high quality research on a theme which has international relevance.
- Guidance about how to propose a special issue can be found in the online author instructions. Proposals are accepted on a continuous basis and there is no deadline for submission.
